BLANCHE CARLSON

ART STUDENT HIDES TRAIL IN FLIGHT

Blanche Carlson, a former Boston art student, sent $100 to her employer "so he won't think I'm a rotter," when she left his employ without notice and disappeared.
Blanche has been missing from her home at No. 111 Tremont street, Roxbury, since last Monday.
She left two letters; one to her sister, and one to her father, "Dot" Carlson, a widower, confined to his home with asthma.
Her father said she has suffered ill health for more than a year and seemed to find no relief in the severe New England climate.

Her departure was carefully planned. In the note to her father she said:
"Dear Dad: Since I plan to leave Boston tomorrow, I am enclosing $100 for you, and the key to the house. My poor health has prevented me

SOUTH END MAN MURDERED WITH AN AXE AS HE SLEEPS

James Cornish, a forty-eight-year-old negro, was found dead in his bed in a lodging house at No. 4 Standford place, South End, early today.
He had been murdered with an axe as he slept. Robbery is believed to have been the motive.
Walter Cook, aged 19, who was Cornish's roommate, but who had been away since Saturday, discovered the body and is held by the police.

The janitor, Frank Davis, and other lodgers told the police that Cornish was in a quarrel yesterday with a stranger who had been seen around the place for two days.

SACRED VESSELS STOLEN FROM LAWRENCE CHURCH

Lawrence, Nov. 19.—The Russian Orthodox church on Concord street, was entered by burglars today.

Entrance was made by false keys and the sanctuary door forced. A gold chalice and a gold box, the container for the Host, a gold embroidered altar cloth and a number of valuable silk and satin vestment worn by the clergy were stolen.

ENTANGLED IN PAST AGREE

Entanglements Temporarily at Least by New Pact for Note to Germany

Paris, Nov. 19 (U.N.S.).—A decision has been reached upon the German issues and there is no longer any doubt, it is believed, that the German ambassador to France, leaving the meeting of the Inter-Allied Ambassadors' Council this afternoon.

Paris, Nov. 19 (A.P.).—The delegates leaving today's meeting of the Inter-Allied Council of Ambassadors said that no rupture between Great Britain and France had occurred.

The impression in allied political circles is that the entanglements in the moment, but still in a precarious situation, at the mercy of the first incident in Germany hostile to the mission of control.

France, it is believed, will not hesitate to take action in such a case, overriding all allied objections. Consequently it is feared the equivocal situation of the allies has not been definitely remedied and that the crisis which might lead to a break has only been postponed.

The ambassadors. It was stated, had agreed provisionally on measures regarding the resumption of allied military control in Germany.

When the session of the Ambassadors' Council opened at 11:30 o'clock it was understood that the instructions of the French representatives were to tell the allies that France, even with them or without them, would do what ever was necessary to oblige Germany to respect the military clauses of the peace treaty.

MEETING IN SECRET.
Exceptional measures were taken to protect the secrecy of the meeting. The foreign representatives were banished to a remote part of the foreign ministry and were the only one to learn the secret that it had been arranged for the ambassadors to meet in a private house.

Most of the ambassadors were grave and silent as they arrived. The Marquis of Crewe, the British ambassador, wore a particularly worried look. Baron de Gatter D'Esprey, the Belgian ambassador, and Guyon T. Herriot, ambassador of the United States, were the only ones who did not seem to regard the council meeting as a solemn occasion.

Barefooted Dancer Gives Exhibition in N. Y. Church

New York, Nov. 18.—Barefoot dancers, stereotypical of the sculptural masterpieces and colored lights were introduced to the old Church of St. Ignace-Boulevard, when the actor, Dr. William Norman Guthrie, conducted an experiment toward a "rhythmic sculptural studio"—a laboratory devoted to translate the progress of the human soul.

A throng which filled every pew in the church and overflowed into the lobby watched the initiation of the experiment.

Judge Bishop Rules No Other Justice Can Take Place of Judge Quinn

Judge Elias Bishop in Superior Court today declared a mistrial in the case of William J. Corcoran and seven other defendants in the trial of the alleged Boston blackmail ring.

The decision came following testimony of Mrs. Bold and Sergeant John Joseph F. Quinn who were unable to serve on the bench for at least a month.

Testimony of the doctors was strengthened by personal observation of Judge Bishop, one of the eight defendants and husband of Judge Quinn's bedside at Salem Saturday and talked with him.

The decision came in the face of strong objection by counsel for the defense who filed stipulations asking that a substitute judge be named and the trial proceed to same time and expense.

When Dugan failed to put in an appearance with the other defendants and his attorney, Walter Smith, telephoned in an effort to locate him but was unsuccessful. This will mean new bail necessary for Dugan.

Today's action means that a new trial will be necessary. Millions of words have been taken in testimony, all of which will have to be gone over again. The trial was in its 31st day.

POSSE SEEKS BANDITS WHO WOUNDED MAN
Washington, Nov. 19 (Universal).—Nearly 160 armed residents of Prince George County, Md., near here, are searching the countryside for two armed men who waylaid and shot Charles Wilson, deputy county treasurer. Wilson is expected to die.

VET. BUREAU HEAD FLED TO SEATTLE

Seized as Military Deserter, Four Years Later in New Hampshire

Charles R. Forbes, former director of the Veterans' Bureau, whose desertion from the Signal Corps of the United States Army is revealed in the current issue of Hearst's International Magazine, was captured in New Hampshire four years after he fled from the Army, the Boston American learned today.

Forbes is now under investigation by a select committee of the United States Senate as a result of a resolution introduced in the closing days of Congress by Senator David L. Walsh. His military record is now in the hands of the committee, and Major General John F. O'Bryan, counsel for the Senate committee, has asked leave to argue for the admissibility of the record today.

The Boston American has also learned two more important episodes in the career of Forbes, who as head of the Veterans' Bureau, was

TWO POLICEMEN ON TRIAL FOR BATTLE WITH A THIRD

Louis R. Oleson and Robert A. J. Burns, patrolmen of Lorraine street station, were given a hearing before a police trial board at headquarters today on charges of drunkenness and assaulting Patrolman James E. Cusack on Avery street last July following a collision between a small car driven by Burns and a truck.

"PADLOCK LAW" ON IN LAWRENCE THIS WEEK

Lawrence, Nov. 19.—For the first time since the Volstead act, Lawrence will this week witness the working of the padlock law. Walter Sullivan, Federal agent who has been heading the movement to make Lawrence dry if not dry, stated that the first local place to be padlocked by Federal function will be the saloon of Frank Gould at No. 44 Common street. The saloon proprietor has been taken into custody twice in the past two weeks on charges relating to the prohibition amendment.

KIDNAP VET FROM INSANE ASYLUM
Washington, Nov. 19.—A charge that the Veterans' Bureau kidnaped Charles Savage, a World War veteran, from an insane asylum in the State of Washington and took him to a hospital in Pennsylvania was made today before the Senate veterans' committee by Representative Johnson of Washington.

FRED MANSFIELD IS DEAD IN PROVIDENCE
Providence, Nov. 18 (U. P. R.)—Fred Mansfield, proprietor of Crown Hotel, died at the Jane Brown Hospital today after a lingering illness. He was fifty-six years of age. He was a personal and intimate friend of many of the leading lights of the stage. Mansfield was born in England, in 1867. He came to the United States in 1887, settling at Taunton.

FORBES BARED AS DESERTER

of the Veterans' Bureau, allowed a million and a half dollars to go to favored politicians and friends out of two billions appropriated by Congress. They say:

1—Forbes deserted a wife and child to enlist in the signal corps. When he enlisted he swore that he was single. He admitted this when arrested in New Hampshire and brought before a military court martial at Fort Strong in Boston harbor.

2—There is no evidence to indicate that Forbes ever divorced his first wife, although he married again. His second wife divorced him on October 11 last, at Seattle.

ENLISTED IN HUB

The Senate committee is in possession of these two startling facts. The committee has been informed that Forbes, during the first weeks of his office, paid $4,000 to keep the record of his first marriage from becoming public.

Everything possible has been done to keep Forbes' former military record from being made public. He was enlisted in the United States Marine Corps when fourteen, so he (telling on the witness stand, later, however, he testified in the Signal Corps.

Both of these misstatements were in Boston. After his enlistment in the Signal Corps, when he left his wife, who was in a delicate condition, he was assigned to duty at Seattle, where the Alaskan cable was being laid.

From this post he deserted and made his way East.

Four years later he was picked up in New Hampshire and turned over to the military authorities.

Forbes next saw the former director of the Veterans' Bureau. There he pleaded guilty to desertion and false enlistment, in that he had sworn that he was single when he enlisted.

Under military regulations, in force at that time, and since changed, he was given double time for desertion.

C. H. Forbes. Senator Walsh.

Forbes was taken away from his home twice. His admission of desertion in the military records at Fort Strong.

The record of Forbes was known to President Harding when he was appointed, according to high officials of the War Department.

Hearst's International Magazine charges that Forbes' record was impounded by Presidential order up to that time would not come out under the eyes of investigators.

Adjutant General Davis received official instructions to keep that record in his own possession, the Boston American learned, and until the Senate committee called for it Forbes' record has never been out of Major General Davis' hands.

The Boston American has also learned that Forbes, at the convention of the American Legion in New Orleans two years ago, admitted that he had been in trouble before but stated, flatly, that "it is up to the President, who knows all about me," to take action.

It was after the American Legion learned that Forbes was a deserter that they took their first steps to oust him.

Observers in Washington say that Forbes' former military record and the record of his first marriage will probably be included in the minutes of the Senate investigation. General O'Hara and Senator Walsh have both laid the ground work for this.

HEART CHARGE BROVE
Senator David A. Reed and Senator Tucker L. Odie, Republicans, the other members of the committee, are against this record appearing because of the evidence of unprecedented graft in the Veterans' Bureau that has been uncovered.

Hearst's International Magazine charges that out of two billions of dollars appropriated by Congress for the disabled veterans, only half a million have reached the veterans. All of the charges made by the magazine have been denied under oath before the committee. The committee has admitted that they had Forbes' record as sergeant, signal corps, but did not know whether it would be admitted or not.

Forbes was brought up in Boston. After doing his time in the army as a result of his pleading guilty to desertion, he spent most of his time in Washington and Oregon, where he set himself up as a "warrior."

On the witness stand in Washington last week he admitted he was not a graduate engineer and that he had but little schooling.

Forbes is not American born, but is a naturalized citizen, although until forced with that on the witness stand in Washington last week had always maintained that he was a Bostonian. He was born in Lebanon, N. H.

married wife. She fell weeping at her husband's side.

FORMER PARTNERS.

Dow was calm and composed when he surrendered to the police. He said he obtained the revolver at the Army Base five years ago when he was employed there as a special of force.

The two men had been partners in the trucking business at one time, and broke up after an argument. Dow remained in the business, and McMahon found employment as a laborer for the Standard Oil Company in Dorchester. Since that time, according to the police, there has been bitterness between the two men.

McMahon and his wife have had numerous quarrels during the past few months, according to the police, and on several occasions, the police have been called to stop their fights.

QUIT HIS JOB.

Following their last argument, McMahon quit his job with the Standard Oil Company and went to live with Dow, where two sisters of McMahon, Katherine and Angela McMahon also live. A few days ago Dow ordered McMahon to leave the house.

Sergeant McNeill and Patrolman Frank Crowley of the Field Force Station arrested Dow and specifically charged him with assault with a dangerous weapon with intent to kill. Mrs. McMahon, following her visit to the City Hospital, where she remained at the side of her dying husband as long as the authorities would permit, left for the home of relatives to spend the rest of the night. She seemed to disavow the affair, but admitted a complete reconciliation had been effected between her husband and herself.

FRENCH WAR MOTHER OPPOSES MEMORIAL

Paris, Nov. 18.—The villa Burey, near Paris, determined to have a soldiers' monument. Opposition from an unexpected source. As fast as the excavations the foundation was dug, it was in at night by mysterious hands. Watch was set and it was found that it was a woman named Burey, who, living opposite the said site as her son had been killed in the war she could not bear thought of such a reminder of loss. She was twice brought court and fined and as her continued was locked up.

SEEDS 500 YEARS OLD REPORTED GROWING

Baltimore, Nov. 18.—In the laboratory of plant physiology of Johns Hopkins University, a Japanese student of science, Prof. Ichiro Onga, is growing long seeds believed to be 500 years old.

The seeds were found under layers of peat fifteen feet deep in what once was a pond on the edge of the Dohi Desert in Manchuria. Native children dig them out to eat.

The seeds when found are black and egg shaped, about a half inch long and hard as flint.

GIRL BARRED FROM CELL OF "SHEIK"

Write No. 2 Repulsed in Efforts to See Fall River Caterer in Jail

Fall River, Nov. 19.—Ida Messier Coleman, prize winning beauty, is going to stand by her "pastry trick" husband.

"I'm going to stick by him to the end," the girl-wife told attendants at the New Bedford House of Correction, where the husband, James W. Coleman, is under lock and key.

Ida tried to reach Coleman in his cell, Sunday, but House of Correction guards would not let her in, so she could not see him. Several times later she sought to be with him and the institution officers finally told her to leave the premises and stay away.

"I'll be at his side in the New Bedford courtroom when he comes to trial," she said.

Ida is wife No. 2 of the "pastry sheik." Alice Berry Coleman of Beacon Hill, Boston, wife No. 1, will help in the prosecution of Coleman. "Ida can have him," said Alice.

Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Messier, of No. 104 Elsbree street, this city, father and mother of Ida, do not share the love of their daughter for Coleman. Said Mr. Messier: "The

ATTLEBORO FIREBUG CAUSES 35 TO FLEE

Attleboro, Nov. 18.—Thirty-five persons, many of them women and children, fled to the street in their night clothes from their homes in the Reeve Block, Pine and East streets, to which a firebug had applied the torch. Hallways had been soaked with kerosene. An unidentified man, seen loitering about the building, is being hunted by the fire as the firebug.

The building contained four apartments on the upper two floors and four stores on the street floor. It was burned to the ground.

Smart Audience to Hear Lecture to Aid Music School, Says Betty Alden

By BETTY ALDEN.
"ART of the Drama" is the topic on which Richard Bolles-Sky, formerly of the Moscow Art Theatre, will speak this afternoon at the second of three lectures being given in aid of the South End Music School.

I expect that a fashionable as well as appreciative audience will gather at 8 o'clock this afternoon at Mrs. Henry Lyman's home on Commonwealth avenue for the occasion.

A week ago Dean Gopal Mazer, the Hindu poet, spoke on "The Art of Poetry" at the Mt. Vernon home of Miss Mary C. Wheelwright. The series closes on Monday afternoon, December 5, with a talk on the "Art of Music" by Thomas Whitney Surtell.

Miss Louisa T. Bazeley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William A. L. Bazeley of Commonwealth avenue, is in charge of the informal tea which follows each lecture. Assisting her are four buds of the season, the Misses Margaret Bazeley, Louise Benson, Alice Lane and Elizabeth Oakes. Miss Bazeley, by the way, is one of the councilors of the South End Music School.

Among the large group of notable supporters for these talks are Medaquin Quincy A. Shaw, Frederick S. Whitwell, Alvin Forbes, Henry L. Hargrove, Henry Parkman and Daniel A. de Menocal.

Boston's representation in the Winter colony at Santa Barbara, Calif., promises to be of good-sized proportions. Among the most recent to plan a mid-Winter in that sunny clime are Mr. and Mrs. Robert Trent Paine, who will leave for the coast around the first of January. Mr. and Mrs. Robert Trent Paine

MISS LOUISA BAZELEY
Miss Bazeley is one of the councilors of the South End Music School, in whose aid a series of three lectures is being given.

Storer (Dorothy Paine), their son-in-law and daughter, have joined the younger married colony out Cambridge way. Following their marriage a few years ago, they made their home at Woodmont, N. Y.

Of no small import to the debutantes is the dance which Mr. and Mrs. Henry Forbes Higelow are giving tonight at their Chestnut street home in honor of three of the most prominent ladies of the season, the Misses Nancy Patten, Dorothy Whitthrop and Dorothy Weld. Miss Patten is a niece of Mrs. Higelow's, while Miss Weld is related to Mr. Higelow.

Of those giving dinners before the dance are Dr. and Mrs. Charles Allen Porter of Beacon street, whose home is as often the centre of gay festivities. Among the guests will be friends of the younger daughter of the house, Miss Margaret, better known as "Peggy." Miss Porter, who was presented two

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE LECTURE

The First Church of Christ Scientists, in Boston Announces A Free Lecture on Christian Science By Judge Frederick C. Hill, C. S., Member of the Board of Lecturers of This Church. IN THE CHURCH OFFICE, 145 South Street, Boston. Monday Evening, November 19, 8 o'clock. AT EIGHT O'CLOCK YOU ARE CORDIALLY INVITED

For the "Lady of the House"

One can suggest many gifts for the woman who entertains charmingly and whose house gives forth good cheer and welcome to family and friends.

Candlesticks, compotes, flower bowls and vases in glass of gay hues are very attractive in living-room or hall. One shape of vase in amber, blue, or amethyst is particularly suited for holding large bunches of wild flowers.

Lamps of unusual coloring are made from the best of the modern pottery vases. Each one of ours has its own especially designed shade. You will find other types of interest, for we have lamps for every room in the house—from stately floor lamps to cory little ones to be used on a bedside table.

Silver suggests many possibilities. From tea and coffee services down to single spoons there are pieces to suit every taste and every purse.

In our antique department are pewter plates, Staffordshire figurines, old silver and china, any of which would appeal to the acquisitive instinct of the homemaker.

There is still time to order some monogram playing-cards for the bridge lover. The new English papers make letter-writing a pleasure.

We have found that 88% of the men who try Lucky Strike immediately adopt them. So to introduce you to Lucky Strike we can well afford to make this special offer of paying the 6c Government tax today ourselves.

No words can do justice to the Toasted Process in Lucky Strike. It takes us an extra 45 minutes to toast the flavor in, but it takes you only a moment to try the flavor out—the test of the toasting is the tasting.

Smoke this package tax free—you'll get acquainted with a cigarette so balanced in the blend, so mild in the flavor, so smooth in the smoking and so fragrant with the sealed-in-virtues of the toasted process, that you'll change to this brand that never changes—and you'll never change again.

To men who already smoke
Lucky Strike

We want you, too, to get this tax free package, maybe to pass it on to a friend who doesn't yet know the pleasure you know.

Let him enjoy Lucky Strike as you do. Tell him to try one package and then see if he agrees with you and millions of others that there's no cigarette with such characteristic superiority.

Tell him why you prefer Lucky Strike. Tell him that the extra 45 minutes of toasting insures a flavor that never varies. He'll find, as you have, that this is a cigarette which can be continuously enjoyed. The flavor never varies.

Some one introduced you to your first Lucky Strike and you recall it as a lucky discovery. So pass the good word along. Give some friend the same opportunity. Tear out the coupon now.

QUICK QUAKER

Cooks in 3 to 5 minutes!

Here's a vicer breakfast in a hurry. Ask your grocer for Quick Quaker. Cooks in half the time of coffee, faster than eggs, no longer than plain toast!

So start the day right with a HOT breakfast—best for you, best for the youngsters.

Same plump flakes as regular Quaker Oats, the kind you've known. But eat this and you'll find it cooks—smaller flakes that cook faster, that's the only difference.

All the fast Quaker flavor. All the nourishment of the world's premier vicer breakfast. So—no better breakfast.

JOHN JOHNSON'S UNCELENT REVEALS SENTIMENT

The candidacy of Senator Hiram Johnson for the Republican nomination for President in 1924 has resulted in many expressions favoring the nomination and election of President Coolidge from his strong adherents in New England, and an attitude of silence by many prominent Republicans who, either through their personal connections with the progressive wing of the party or their natural progressive tendencies, are likely to favor the California Senator's candidacy.

Among the strongest advocates of Coolidge are Governor Cox of Massachusetts and Senator Lodge.

Democratic leaders, as far as they have expressed themselves, will be satisfied with either Senator Underwood of Alabama or former Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo as candidate of the Democratic nomination.

Senator Lodge, as far as they have expressed themselves, will be satisfied with either Senator Underwood of Alabama or former Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo as candidate of the Democratic nomination.

suit me. Both are strong men and would be attractive candidates. McAdoo's labor record and his treatment of the railroad men during his administration give him the lead in this part of the country. Underwood is a big, strong man, well equipped for the Presidency.

FERNALD DEBATES JOHNSON. RAYMOND R. STEVENS of Lowell, Democratic Candidate for Governor of New Hampshire—I am for McAdoo. He is a man of energy and good ability.

United States Senator BERT M. FERNALD of Maine—I know Hiram Johnson. There are a million men who could subscribe to the general line of his letter announcing his candidacy. That is, I know this country as it is to be treated. I agree with him on the League of Nations, on the President, but it is not an issue. I do not worry about Johnson.

STATE SENATOR JOHN J. McCRANE of Providence, R. I.—Al Smith and McAdoo are the Democratic favorites in Rhode Island. Johnson has more friends here among the Republicans than here among the Democrats. The cold aloofness of Coolidge has estranged the people.

SENATOR R. E. QUINN of Warwick, R. I.—I am for Governor Smith of New York for the Democratic nomination, but McAdoo is the strong candidate. Johnson is more popular with Rhode Island Democrats than the President.

WOMAN WANTS TIME. MRS. GEORGE E. THOM, Democratic State Committeewoman of Rhode Island—McAdoo is brilliant and popular, but I shall want more time and study to make a personal choice.

MRS. ISABELLA ALPHEAN O'NEILL, member of Rhode Island Legislature and Democratic State Committeewoman—Either McAdoo or Underwood would make a good candidate. Both are strong men. Johnson will not carry California, against either. Coolidge is a cold overcastness, vague, like the President and cannot be re-elected.

JUDGE OLIVER W. BRANCH, Manchester, N. H., a leading Democrat—Underwood by the Democrats, especially against McAdoo. Underwood is the able man.

WASHINGTON COMMENT. Comment in Washington today on the candidacy of John McAdoo was as follows:

SENATOR ASHLEY, Democrat, of Arizona: "I am for McAdoo, of course. I think that he will be nominated easily. His statesmanlike high character and record of accomplishment make him the strongest candidate."

SENATOR ROYAL C. COPPELAND, Democrat, of New York: McAdoo is the strongest candidate for the Democratic nomination, and very probably will be our next President. The people will vote no more of Coolidge. Either Borah or Johnson would get more votes at the polls than Coolidge, but voters stand a good chance of getting the nomination. The G. O. P. machine is a powerful instrument.

Senator Borah, Republican, of Idaho, refused to be quoted, but it is understood that he regards Mr. Johnson's announcement as not a serious political document. Senator Curtis, Republican, of Kansas, majority whip in the Senate, was not enthusiastic.

END RHEUMATISM WITH RED PEPPER

Penetrating Heat of Rowles Red Pepper Rub is Quickest Relief Known.

When you are suffering with rheumatism so you can hardly get around just try Red Pepper Rub and you will have the quickest relief known.

Nothing has such concentrated, penetrating heat as red pepper. Instant relief. Just as soon as you apply Red Pepper Rub you feel the tingling heat. In three minutes it warms the sore spot through and through. Frees the blood circulation, breaks up the congestion—and the old rheumatism torture is gone.

Rowles Red Pepper Rub, made from red peppers, costs little at any drug store. Get a jar at once. Use it for lumbago, neuritis, backache, stiff neck, sore muscles, colds in chest. All instant relief awaits you. Be sure to get the genuine, with the name Rowles on each package.

Whitehall Pharmaceutical Co. New York, N. Y.

Take two tablets every three hours, until three doses are taken. The first dose always gives relief. The second and third doses completely break up the cold. Pleasant and safe to take. Contains no opium or opiates. Millions use "Pape's Cold Compound." Price thirty-two cents. Druggists guarantee it.

after the Senator Johnson's candidacy.

Congressman CHARLES L. UNDERHILL, Newmerville: "I have no use for Johnson. I don't think he illustrates or typifies the Republic on party and his progressivism is mostly bunk for political consideration. If the convention is properly organized he will be defeated in his own State."

Calvin Coolidge has met every opportunity, emergency or crisis, is not given to demagoguery or being glibly a man of action rather than a man of words—I might add, a man of destiny.

"The country would be safer under his guidance than that of anyone I can think of."

photographer, inquired: "What's this, a strike or a lockout?"

A looker, Mr. Ambassador, the newspaperman cried in response.

It is understood a formula was formulated an acceptable compromise between the British and French points of view on military control in Germany.

The supposition was that this agreement was based on the suggestion put forward this morning that the ambassadors send Germany a formal note, in which they would promise for the military control mission, but without mentioning what the allies might do in case Germany refused to give the required assurance.

Adjustment occurred after two hours' discussion. The ambassadors came out of the meeting room looking much relieved. They were reluctant, but agreed a break had been avoided.

The agreement reached, it was stated, would be submitted this afternoon to the French and Belgian Cabinets, which previously last called meetings to be held shortly after midday.

It was announced that the council would meet again at 8 p. m. to discuss the question of the ex-Crown Prince's return.

One Mistake

That millions are correcting. They fight the film on teeth

In the old days, even well-brushed teeth were left with film-coats on them. The teeth were clouded more or less.

Now millions have found a new method. You see the result in glistening teeth wherever you look today. Teeth are whiter, cleaner, safer.

If you don't know what that method means, we urge you to make this test. It is something you'll desire.

The cloud on teeth Film is that vicious coat you feel. Under old methods, much of it clings and stays. Soon it becomes discolored, then forms dingy coats. That is why teeth look luster.

Film also holds food substance which ferments and forms acid. It holds the acid in contact with the teeth to cause decay. Germs breed by millions in film. They, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea. Thus few escaped tooth troubles, despite the daily brushing.

That film problem dental science has worked hard to solve. Now two ways have been found. One

U. S. PLANES IN FLIGHT AROUND WORLD

Washington, Nov. 18 (U.N.S.)—Secretary of War Weeks has approved a flight around the world by army planes next spring and summer. The State Department is asking other countries for permission to land on their soil. Announcement to this effect was made by the War Department.

The flight personnel will consist of four officers and four enlisted men well qualified for the rigors. Tentatively, the itinerary and plan follow:

Leave Washington about the middle of next March and proceed to Seattle. Depart from Seattle April 1, flying northward along the coast of Canada and Southern Alaska, across the Aleutian Islands, through the Possessions of Japan, along the shores of China, French Indo-China, Siam and Burma, across India, up the Persian Gulf, across Turkey and Europe to England, thence north through the Faroe Islands to Iceland, thence to Greenland and southward along the eastern shore of the continent to Cape Farewell, from which point a direct flight will be made to Hamilton, Inlet, on the coast of Labrador, thence southward along the Canadian shore, up the St. Lawrence river to Quebec and Montreal, and then to Washington.

Traffic officer at Summer and Washington streets who emit shrill whistle from lips to halt motor cars instead of using police whistles attached to his coat.

Records fail to state when man began to whistle. It can't be determined whether Adam puffed, whistled and summoned Eve from her garden wanderings with a shrill signal or just "yoo-hooed" when he thought dinner should be served. Whoever started whistling, the fact remains that Policeman George P. Hayes has mastered the art for utilitarian purposes. He is attached to the Boston traffic squad and directs the destinies of travel at Washington and Summer streets.

George has a regulation police whistle dangling from the necktie and a blue coat, but he whistles with his lips when he decides traffic shall quit or proceed. If his lips get pinched he uses the artificial contrivance, but that seldom and less convincing.

When George emits one of his shrill blasts and puts out his tongue, hand broken speech and motion ceases.

Leading dentists everywhere began to urge its use. Now careful people of some 50 nations have adopted this new method.

Other vital needs It was also found that old methods brought undesired effects. They reduced the alkalinity of the saliva—the neutralizer of mouth acids. They reduced the starch digestant in saliva, which is there to digest starch deposits.

Peppermint brings just opposite effects. It multiplies the alkalinity, multiplies the starch digestant. Thus every use gives manifold power to these great natural tooth-protecting agents.

Protect the Enamel Peppermint disintegrates the film, then removes it with an agent far softer than enamel. Never use a film comb which contains harsh grits.

Then you will want your entire family to enjoy these new dentifrices. Cut out the coupon so you won't forget.

Send the coupon for a 10-Day Tube. Note how clean the teeth feel after using. Mark the absence of the vicious film. See how teeth become whiter as the film-coats disappear.

WIT TO COP FOR BIG PROTEST

Newport, R. I., Nov. 18.—Fashionable Newport is indignant, not to say alarmed.

Arthur Leland, chairman of the city's recreation committee, has had the "nerve" to suggest a camping ground for automobilists.

Arthur went so far as to recommend a site for the auto camp on the hospital grounds near Hazen's Beach, Newport's exclusive shores.

Frederick Prime Garretton, whose home in Tuxedo Park is one of the show places of this watering place, has taken up the cause against the idea of bringing the "auto-polit" to Newport by flivver and letting them stay overnight. Garretton, it will be remembered, was mayor here eight years ago and was burned in effigy when he clamped the "let" on tight on Sunday.

Terminating Leland's plan a "pipe dream," Garretton, in a public letter, declares: "No, Arthur, nothing doing."

Leland pointed out that thousands of communities throughout the country have auto camping sites.

GAS COMPANY'S CORPS OF TRAINED EXPERTS

Corps of Trained Experts Give Personal Attention to Wants of Quarter Million Gas Users in Greater Boston

Did you ever call some big commercial organization on the telephone to make a "kick" about something, to ask advice or some other thing you thought must be brought to the attention of the company? Did you ever wait hour-long minutes on the telephone for information, get shouted from one department to another and eventually get left hanging hopelessly on the end of the line, finally hang up the receiver in disgust and then make a trip downtown and demand the information in person?

What gas have you or haven't you will register approval for the plan just adopted by the Boston Consolidated Gas Company to correct just that annoyance and give customers direct personal and service by phone. Through its customers are invited and cordially received at its main office and no longer necessary for them to appear in person, for all their wants to be met by trained men always accessible by telephone.

Appreciating the fact that a customer's use of gas is an asset of value to the company, President Dana D. Barnum of the Boston Consolidated Gas Company's Board of Directors adopted a plan to bring the company closer to the people, to make a real human connection between the officials of the company and the gas-using public.

The constant operation of a large number of trunk lines under the number 8000 gives the public immediate access by telephone. Trained receiving operators, after a few words from the subscriber, know just who can best attend to the matter and the subscriber is connected at once with that man.

The Telephone Board must do the rest. There's no shunting around from this to that department and no opportunity for vacation delays. It's service de luxe quick, courteous, efficient, complete.

Talk to Only One Person President Barnum, speaking of the service yesterday, said: "It is our purpose to give our customers special and individual attention when they call upon us for information or advice. Of course there is no difficulty at all with personal calls when the customer asks for some specified person."

"The majority of calls, however, are inquiries and such must be handled by some responsible person who knows exactly what he wants and knows what to do or advise. These calls are segregated by the receiving operator according to type and the right man put on the line. If the inquiry is something still beyond him he takes the matter up in the interest of the customer, gets the information and supplies it to the inquirer without the necessity of the customer talking to a business with many individuals in our organization."

"Since the adoption of this plan of direct, personal interested service we have found that it practically eliminates complaint for the customer and actually saves a vast amount of time for the individuals in our organization who heretofore have frequently been bothered about matters entirely out of their jurisdiction when there was no need nor talk for the switchboard service. As an efficiency scheme it is a success. From a standpoint of service it is cheerful co-operation."

3 GIRLS ACCUSE RICH MAN SUE AS LOVE THIEF BY EMPLOYE

Lynn and Metropolitan police are searching for a Swampscott man, who is alleged by three girls to have attacked them on the Lynnway, near the Lynn-Revere line, where they accepted his invitation to motor home from a dance.

The girls described themselves as Gertrude Martin, No. 23 Cypress street, Gladys Martin, Brookline avenue, and Dorothy Gannon, No. 14 Wall avenue, all of Brookline, and all eighteen years old.

According to the police, they said they were returning home from a Boston dance hall when the strange sheik drew up in an automobile and invited them to take a ride to Lynn. The girls accepted.

At the Point of Pine bridge the sheik is alleged to have dragged Gertrude into the shrubbery. Gladys and Dorothy remained in the car until their screams for help. They responded, and in the morn, Gertrude lost two teeth and was badly cut and bruised about the face.

A man, who gave his name as "George Harold, No. 12 Sullivan street, Charlestown, heard the screams and went to the rescue. He was accompanied by several male companions.

The Swampscott man is alleged to have procured an iron pipe from his automobile and to have threatened to kill Harold and his companions and then to have escaped in his car.

Harold took the three girls to Brookline, stopping at the Marine station of the Metropolitan police to report the affair. The matter was turned over to the Lynn police and Inspector James Dinneen was assigned to the case.

Police investigation revealed that the addresses given by the girls and the man, are fictitious. Only the girls appear personally to make complaint at the Lynn police head-quarters today, the case will be dropped by the police.

HUSBAND IS BACK BY RADIO

"Poker Widow" Writes to American That She Is Now "Radio Wife"

Mrs. Helen M. Hayes startled New England a few days back by declaring in the midst of marital troubles that she was a "Radio Widow."

The American invited radio wives to write in their experience with husbands who had neglected them for the fascinating radio. The invitation drew a remarkable letter from a woman who was a poker widow, but now is a happy, radio wife. A home made radio outfit transformed her neglectful spouse into a devoted husband.

"Radio Widow Editor: "Dear Sir—I am writing to you to state that I am a radio wife, not a radio widow. I noticed the request in your paper, but I know there's a good side to this question and I'd like to tell it.

"Bill and I have been married fifteen years and we have a boy thirteen. In the last few years, up until lately, we had lost the joy out of our home. It didn't seem to mean as much as it had in the beginning.

"Bill had got the habit of being out about every night, it was a mean habit to break. He played poker all the time with a crowd of seven. What bothered me most was, that he and the boy hardly knew each other. And the boy didn't have much respect for Bill, seeing him go off and leave us all the time.

"It wasn't any use to argue and quarrel. What then got too hot to put would give me some extra money, saying it was winnings and I should be about it.

"The boy had been saving all the extra money he got on his paper route, and cutting people's lawns and other odd jobs. Because he wanted a radio set. His dad wasn't interested enough to get one for him.

"But I took some of that winnings money Bill gave me and put it with what the boy had and we got a plain little set and two pair of head phones and we surely had some fun with it.

"It wasn't any time till Bill thought he might be missing something. He tried it out, and he was

Kingdon Gould Files Suit to Prevent Interest on Liberty Bonds Being Paid to Widow

New York, Nov. 19 (N.S.)—On or before November 28, in the New Jersey Court of Chancery at Trenton, will be filed a legal document that may prove the detonating element in a titanic struggle involving the $30,000,000 estate of George J. Gould.

The document is expected to furnish detailed explanation for the action of Kingdon Gould, one of the executors of his father's will, in instructing the Commercial Trust Company of New Jersey to refuse Kingdon Gould's interest on $1,000,000 in Liberty bonds.

With the shadow of death already upon him, in March, 1923, George Gould transferred the $1,000,000 to his beautiful second wife, saying: "Whatever happens, I want you and the babies to be protected."

Kingdon Gould has instructed his counsel, George J. Gillette, to attack the validity of the transfer, saying: "I am an officer of the court in New Jersey an executor of father's estate. I intend to do my duty."

Another member of the family said: "This does not mean a contest of the provisions of Mr. Gould's will giving $4,000,000 trust fund to Mrs. Guinevere Gould and some $1,000,000 to each of her children. It merely means she is not to be permitted, if legal means can be found, to retain possession of this property."

AMOUNT NOT SHOWN. "The $1,000,000 in Liberty bonds was transferred to a personal trust fund established by Mr. Guinevere Gould some time before Mr. Gould's death. "I do not know definitely whether the amount of this fund is $2,000,000. Mr. Gould is being paid the income from this fund and is far from the poverty-stricken person she has been depicted in some newspapers."

"Perhaps it will surprise the public to learn that Mrs. Gould is independently wealthy, without regard to the $12,000,000 she had and her children inherit under Mr. Gould's will."

"Does Kingdon Gould intend to attack any other beneficiaries of property from his father to Mr. Guinevere Gould?"

NO IMMEDIATE CONTEST. "This I am not prepared to state. It will require six months to appraise the estate. Then there is the completion of the accountancy out-

UNCONVENTIONAL TEACHER WON'T STOP

DOCTOR TO TAP SPINE OF KU KLUX EDITOR TO FIX DEGREE OF RESPONSIBILITY

One of the most unusual angles to a murder case ever disclosed, is presented in the case of Philip E. Fox, Ku Klux Klan editor of Atlanta, Ga., who is in prison awaiting trial for the murder of Capt. W. S. Coker, attorney for the Simmons faction of the Klan. A quarrel is believed to have brought about the alleged murder.

For the first time in scientific or legal history, a prisoner's life depends upon the laboratory findings of a drop of serum from his spine. If the serum shows certain characteristics, the man is insane. Brain specialists and criminologists are awaiting the outcome. Dr. Frederick B. Cady, one of the country's best known brain specialists, discusses the unique situation today.

By GRACE DESCHAMPS A drop of serum—and a man's life hangs on it. But the drop of serum will not save it.

Dr. Frederick B. Cady, of Boston, one of the country's greatest brain specialists, says so. While Philip E. Fox, Ku Klux Klan editor, under on his bench is the jail at Atlanta, Ga., awaiting trial for the murder of Captain W. S. Coker, another Klan dignitary, with whom he quarreled, an entire scientific world watches the outcome of the test of a man's spinal fluid now being made to determine his sanity.

LIFE DEPENDS ON TEST. If the alienists at Atlanta find that a drop of serum from Fox's spine has undergone certain changes consistent with paranoia, a disease in which the brain is affected, counsel for Fox have won a victory that the State cannot hope to equal.

But a man can have general paresis, and if the disease has not progressed far enough for the patient to be irresponsible, the fact that he has it does not excuse him of murder.

Dr. Cady, whose practice and research work at Harvard have made him famous in the world of science, says so, and adds that the serum test on Fox will not be final.

"The physicians who are examining the serum cut have general paresis," Dr. Cady, "apparently are looking for a condition called dementia praecox."

General paresis in its early phase frequently resembles some other brain disorder, and it is a common disease and one may have it in its earlier stages without any mental changes.

"In its more progressed stages it may be evidenced in melancholia, an unusually buoyant optimism, or other exaggerated conduct. Generally, it begins between the ages of thirty and forty."

FLUID RATHER MORTAL. "A test of the cerebrospinal fluid, with a blood test, is necessary to establish a correct diagnosis. A lumbar puncture is made on the spine and a small quantity of fluid drawn off."

"With certain mental disorders, the spinal fluid undergoes certain changes. This fluid has definite characteristics in general paresis. If the test fluid corresponds with that of the diagnosis in general paresis, 'But such a test, if the disease is not acute, would not prove that the man was devoid of responsibility for killing another.'

"It will take more than the findings of the serum test to excuse this man of murder."

BOYS FIND SKULL OF CHILD ON DUMP

Fall River, Nov. 19.—The discovery of a skull of a child, which was made by Norman Maynard, aged 12, No. 14 Irving street, and other boys playing on a dump, a short distance from Pleasant street at the east end, has stirred the local police. The skull rested on a pile of stones and was about the size of a baseball. It was turned over to Medical Examiner William H. Blanchette.

WIFE THANKFUL HUSBAND IS IN JAIL

LOOMISTER, NOV. 19.—Albert K. Martin, former superintendent of the Wheelright Paper Company, accused by his wife of having deserted her and their two children, for a sixty-two-year-old "wamp," was arrested on an indictment warrant here and locked up in the Worcester jail.

Martin is charged with having failed to comply with a court order that he pay his wife $29 a week for the support of his wife and their two children.

"Thank God I have lived to see him safely behind prison bars," Mrs. Martin exclaimed when she was informed of his arrest.

"I am going the limit with him," she added. "A man that would refuse to allow his wife to have a doctor when she was sick need not expect any sympathy."

LITTLE OLD NEW YORK

This Story Will Be Shown Soon in Motion Pictures Starring Marion Davies at One of Your Favorite Theatres in Boston

THE STORY SO FAR

Larry Devuan, a fashionable young man in the days when Fillion was perfecting his steamboat in New York, expects that his stepfather will leave him his large fortune. When John Jacob Astor reads the will he discovers that all the property goes to a nephew, Patrick O'Day, in Ireland. Astor is made trustee and Larry guardian of the hour. O'Day is terribly disappointed. The O'Day family is about to be evicted from their poor home in Ireland when a strange solicitor appears and informs them of their good fortune. Patrick O'Day, as her brother, who dies on the trip, and her father, arrive in New York. Devuan becomes interested in Bob O'Day's steamboat and promises $10,000 of the expenses. At his successful trial trip and Pat saves the boat from falling into Schuyler's hands by a bluff. Larry backs Billy Boy Brewster in a prize fight. Pat sneaks into the firehouse, but the combustible orders her out. The fight is stopped by a fire alarm, running by Pat. The mob gets after her. The Terror starts to horse whip her when she cries out that she is a girl.

Pat (Marion Davies) was broken-hearted at her father's death

Rachel Brewster and her battered brother were there, just coming in.

"Be off," said Larry angrily. "How dare you come into my house!"

"I'll show you how I dare," cried Rachel shrilly. "I'm here and here I'll stay until I find her."

WAYS OF A HUSBAND

SEQUEL TO "WHEN A GIRL MARRIES"

At 7 Ralph L. arrived, with all his will, or stay with me at Mar-mouth Inn if I preferred that course.

The doctor asked him, however, by pronouncing Jim almost over the bad effects of the dive which had stunned him but had worked no further damage.

"We'll let the young man rest for day and then drive him back to town," he said. "A day of quiet in his own home will put him on his feet. No excitement, however. The less fuss we make over this thing the better. No use getting him to brooding over what might have been."

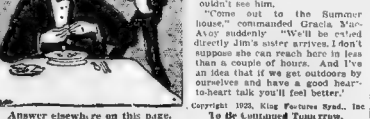

"May I see him?" I asked. "I understand you are his wife, Madame, and that you were summoned here very suddenly. I answered the doctor severely. 'If I were you I wouldn't startle him by letting him know I'd cut him out of my life out of town on a no-count. No use telling a man who's been through what he's been through that he's had a marvelous recovery and that things look as bright as day.'"

"I bowed my head in acquiescence. Never have I felt so unimportant. The doctor seemed to me something unusual in the 'fashion' which had so gripped and worried me. His only worry was that my unexpected return would put the imaginary trip which had evidently been described to him would put the patient back into his thinking what a close shave this had been.

Ralph and the doctor departed at the same time and I found myself alone with Gracie MacAvoy and facing the long hours ahead until Jeanie arrived. I had felt a momentary impulse to tell her of this tangle by going up to town with Ralph. But I knew it would be unwise and I had a sentimental longing to be at least in the same house with Jim even if I couldn't see him.

"Come out the Summer house," commanded Gracie MacAvoy suddenly. "We'll be called directly Jim's water arrived. I don't suppose she can reach here in less than a couple of hours. And I've an idea that if we get outdoors by ourselves and have a good heart-to-heart talk you'll feel better."

OUTFITTERS FOR MEN AND BOYS

You will enjoy life in Boston better if you try to keep alive your sense of humor. It is God-given.—
Professor James G. Gilkie, Amherst College.

Give War Veterans First Chance at Jobs

National Investigation of Soldiers' Bureau Leaves New England Branch Unscathed

It is very desirable that those of our disabled soldiers who are being graduated from our Veteran Bureau schools shall not suffer in their quest for employment from the general prejudice which we feel is being created by the scandal concerning the Veterans' Bureau in Washington.

That prejudice ought not to attach to our New England bureaus for they have come out of the fire unscathed and they are turning out their pupils well equipped for the work for which they have been trained.

But the fact that the New England bureaus have not been found wanting, but rather have been vindicated by the national investigation, is not so generally known as the fact that the national bureau has been corrupt and inefficient. Men who may have use for these young men, trained at the veterans schools, need not fear that there is anything wanting in their training from the inefficiency or the corruption of the schools. The very best work has been done for them and they are absolutely capable of doing the work for which they are trained and for which they offer their services.

The Chambers of Commerce and the Boards of Trade in the State ought to take up the question and their officials ought to tell their members about the efficiency of our local bureaus and urge the employment of these boys who gave up their business and lost their start in life to fight for the country and then lost what no money can ever fully compensate—a perfect body or a perfect state of health. It ought to be a rule among the employers, where other things are equal, to give these boys a first chance, and the State officials ought to set the example. Whenever the civil service list permits the employment of a disabled veteran and it is apparent that he can do the work, he should have the preference.

We call this to the attention of State Auditor Cook and recommend to him that he take the first three men on the civil service list for his field auditors and stop fussing with attempted transfers from other departments. These three men on the civil service list are veterans. Give them a chance. If it is clear that they cannot do the work then it will be time enough to get transfers from other departments. But give them a chance. They took plenty of chances for the country and it is time the State took a chance for them.

Here's Hope of Immortality

This Mother's Soul Will Live Forever

Mrs. Carrie McFeely, of Chicago, is the wife of a tubercular husband and the mother of five tubercular children. To keep her family she has been working as a laundress and charwoman. The doctors found her in a weakened condition, and learned that she had been selling her blood for twenty-five dollars a pint in order to get enough money to buy food and fuel for her children and their father.

This poor woman in her misery dignifies human nature more than all the famous fox-trot and glitter in the limelight.

More than argument and more than prophecy, one fine white soul like that of this poor woman points toward immortality. It shows that the soul can deserve perpetuating. If this is not the last word in devotion, then we have never heard it.

Some day society will become sufficiently civilized to treat its members with as much respect and care as it devotes to its cattle and its hogs!

You may be sure that great Chicago will not let her greatest woman suffer!

At Fort Wayne a Ku Klux speaker invoked as Presidential candidate for 1924 ex-Governor Frank O. Lowden, a conspicuous candidate of 1920. Whether Mr. Lowden knows that the Ku Klux Klan approves him, or wants them to approve him, he has not said. Don't judge too hastily this first official announcement by the Klan concerning 1924. Some, well informed, say the Klan has power enough to prevent the election of anybody opposed to the Klan concerning 1924.

You observe all possible and impossible Presidential candidates have had little or nothing at all to say about the Ku Klux movement.

Ned McLean's Cincinnati Enquirer, published in powerful Ku Klux Klan territory, says: "Let pity be bestowed upon the hapless individuals who are candidates for public office in 1924. A. D. The Ku Klux Klan must be mollified or candidates will suffer loss of their ambitions."

Nineteen hundred and twenty-four is to be a complicated year, it seems, even if Henry Ford does stay out.

The big United States Zepplin, christened "Shenandoah," is testing the usefulness of a big steel mast for "mooring."

The great airship will be tied high up in the air to the steel mast, say as ordinary boats on the water are tied to docks.

The idea is to see if the Shenandoah could float safely in the air at the top of most instead of being brought to ground every night.

Lightning will be the principal danger, of course. But with a steel mast lightning rods should be possible, copper wires around the steel mast connecting by thin copper cable with the iron mast.

It is very likely that regular passenger service by Zepplin will be established between New York and California within two years.

And the "experts" say the airships will be made at least as safe as railroad trains. "Two days to the Pacific on our big airships" is a sign you'll soon read.

They build clocks in towers on public squares and in the steeples of their churches. carry watches on their wrists and set off alarms under their pillows to remind themselves that time is on the wing. And yet they go out to think of death. Industry, literature, philosophy and religion are what they are because we die.

GARRETT P. SERVISS ON SHAKING HANDS WITH ANTIQUITY

By Garrett P. Serviss
Famous Astronomer and Writer on Scientific Topics of Popular

IN the exhibit of North American trees at the wonderful Museum of Natural History, in Central Park West, there is a section of a giant sequoia of which it is said that "it was 2,241 years old, but still a young and vigorous tree."

One cannot help feeling that it was wrong to cut that tree down. I trust that it was not done merely for the sake of saving it into museum exhibits, and I do not believe that such was the motive when the tree was felled. The big sequoias are a small band of wonderful brothers, and one of the wisest of the earth's old men.

They have stood up against the assaults of time so long that they furnish a living link with antiquity. The 2,241 years of that tree's life go back to the latter part of the Cretaceous, only 65 years after the beginning of the Christian era. Look into your pocket and see what you are holding in the world at that time. See if you can find in existence then any of the great nations that today dispute the mastery of the earth or the signs of their coming. Consider that that tree had already been living 210 years when Columbus set sail toward the undiscovered western world. And yet, so astonishing is the longevity of life, that if it had been allowed to continue expanding the evolutionary form, it might have lived another thirteen centuries.

It is possibly true that long life is a sign of vigor, but it is not a sign of vigor for a tree. It is a sign of vigor for a tree.

If it had been left to fall, overwhelmed with decrepitude, at the age of 4,000 years, the botanists of the forty-sixth century might have read the story of its annual rings, and have said, "Look, this tree was already a giant in the twelfth century, an age now so deeply buried that we only know of it by fragmentary memorials, for the people of that time had no means of recording their history in what they called 'books,' made of a perishable material for its name's sake."

The sequoias are all the more remarkable and worthy of preservation because their longevity is a very rare quality in the world of the tree.

Trees in general are by no means as long lived as they are popularly supposed to be. The average length of life of various species of trees, it is my recollection that the vast majority of trees do not attain a century. Of course we do meet with a considerable number that are yet living after two or more centuries of existence. But the sequoias attain not merely several centuries, but even several thousands of years of life.

Trees show their age as well as animals, and the signs are unmistakable in the one as in the other. Among my earliest recollections are those of the old hickory of extraordinary stature, a hundred, or nearly a hundred feet tall, which stood on my father's land in Montgomery County, N. Y., and was famous through the township, both for its size and abundance of nuts.

Pleasure of Boyhood

Falling from a great height in the first frost, the tree's great outer shells were split open, like bursting bombs, throwing out the nuts, with their hard, white inner shells, and on crisp Autumn days I have seen the ground far around the base of the great tree whitened with them. What a paradise it was for squirrels and chipmunks and boys!

The next time I visited the hickory tree, there was not even a stump to tell where my old friend had stood. The brief time taken for its final decay, and now the whole tree was drooping, weak and almost lifeless. I was glad that it bore no more nuts.

The Faristan and American girls violated the rules of the bathing warden, however, by stepping into the deep water, and immediately running ashore in a cart and going up on the sand to the beach.

This gave great amusement to the proper British and Dutch matrons, and to the English visitors, coming from the country where mixed bathing was a crowded upon innovation and where women still wore pantaloons and long heavy skirts. So far as is known, California was the first American city to permit the Ostend bathing suit.

HEROINES OF HISTORY

THE MOTHER OF A GREAT QUEEN

With the greatest difficulty, he raised the means necessary for their travel. But eventually they made their way to London and there a small daughter came to them.

When Victoria was eight months old the Duke of Devonshire, who was the Duke of Devonshire's husband, was killed by a bullet.

It was not until she had married the second time that the Duchess began to excite speculation. By some she was bitterly criticized, and by others looked up to her as the living embodiment of the ideal.

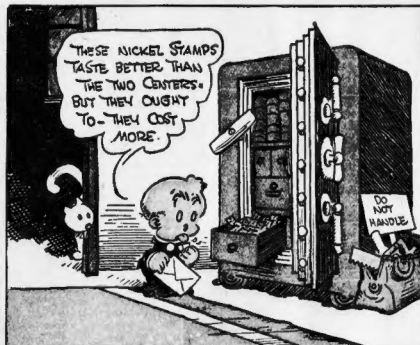

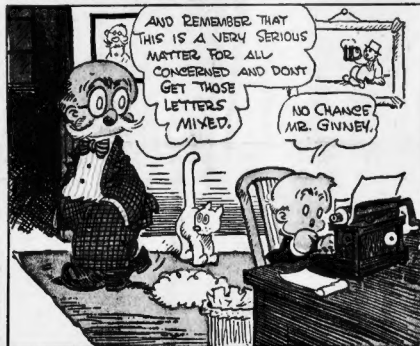

And by an odd coincidence her second husband was a masculine counterpart of herself. And by an odd coincidence her second husband was a masculine counterpart of herself.

The Lady or the Jumping Bean—Which One Suffered Most?

Science Steps Forward to Answer the Strange Charges of Cruelty That Agitated
Mexico and Aroused the Humane Society of California.

Benotita Pepita
Gonzales, Pretty
Nineteen-Year-Old
Heroine of the Amazing Game for Love Which Was Played with Jumping Beans, at Hermosillo, Mexico.

THE Mexican "jumping bean" has jumped into the spotlight of international fame! Cruelty to beans in California—Cruelty to a beautiful woman in Mexico—Humane societies and divorce courts in action—

While bewildered scientists train batteries of microscopes on the innocent bug that's the cause of it all!

The jumping bean is no new thing—though it has heretofore not been extensively known in the United States.

Beyond the Rio Grande, however, it takes the place of dice as a chief national gambling pastime, more exciting even than poker or "African golf."

The bean itself is a little dry pod, irregular in shape, that jumps and rolls about, as if by magic, when put in a warm place.

The real cause of its movement is a caterpillar that lives inside the bean. How it got there and the extraordinary methods it uses in pushing its house about will be described later.

The gambling game the Mexicans play with it is simple. They make a chalk circle three or four feet in diameter on the dark earth, or on a floor. Each gambler places his pet bean in the center of the circle—and then they bet their sombreros on which bean will first jump or roll outside the circle.

The latest jump that has landed the bean in open court occurred at Santa Barbara, California. Merchants there imported a number of the beans for sale, but the beans refused to perform, and business was bad. In order to instill energy into the insects which lived inside the beans, they placed their displays in the hot sunshine. The result was somewhat similar to the action of popcorn on a hot stove, and the merchants were reaping a rich reward, when some tender-hearted ladies of the Santa Barbara Humane Society intervened.

They contended that it was cruelty in its worst form to subject a poor little caterpillar—ad shut up in a bean from which he couldn't escape—to the blazing rays of the sun.

The merchants said, "Blah! What do you mean, cruelty to caterpillars! Cruelty to beans! You'll be laughed out of court!" But the ladies stood their ground, rescued the poor little suffering beans, and had the merchants arrested—so that they will all have to go into court to determine whether or not it is cruelty to put jumping beans in the sun.

But that isn't the end of the "cruelty" revelation in connection with the jumping bean. Investigation of the manner in which the beans are used in Mexico, growing out of interest in the Santa Barbara episode, has yielded a much more thrilling story in which the victim was not the bean but a beautiful girl whose fate depended on which way the bean would jump.

It is a tragedy which began in the State of Sonora, and will probably come to a climax this fall in the divorce courts of Mexico City. The girl was Benotita Pepita Gonzales, extremely pretty, nineteen years of age, who lived with her widowed mother in rather straitened circumstances, near Hermosillo.

Her mother was anxious for her to marry well, to replenish the emptied family coffers, and without exactly offering her for sale, let it be known that the girl was in the marriage market. The two chief authors who presented themselves at the once handsome but now dilapidated rural hacienda where the mother and daughter lived were Porfirio Brus, a handsome middle-aged cattle man with a ranch of his own, and a swarthy personage by the name of Jesus Antonio Maria de Sanchez (please do not be shocked at the sacred names or the mixture of masculine and feminine, which are both quite common in all Latin countries), who had been a "general" under the late Pancho Villa, and who still wielded a powerful influence.

Both were well-to-do, according to the story the girl told afterward in filing her petition for divorce, but she wasn't in love with either of them. Her mother, who would have been quite content with either match, tried to force her

At first blush it might appear that the Bean bean was subjected Another Newspaper Clipping Setting Forth the Bean Controversy.

The unhappy girl, who had been elaborately attired against her will in lace and mantilla and ferial ribbons, was now forced to see herself being gambled for like a slave in some oriental market place. She stood passively with the circle of strained face as the little daughter to a decision, and when Pepita absolutely refused to make a choice, informed the two men that either one of them could have her, but they would have to settle it between them and agree that there should be no quarreling about it afterward. The game went on, and at the end of ten minutes Antonio de Sanchez won. The couple were married, but now Pepita is suing for a divorce, and the whole scandalous jumping bean story has come out in the courts. Along with it, and in connection with the other terms for similar attempted "private adjustments." Neither man was willing to yield, and it was inexpedient to fight, so they decided to settle it by gambling, and chose the jumping bean as their method. Neighbors were invited in, musicians were hired, and the mother prepared an elaborate supper for the betrothal which was to be determined by chance. Before the assembled gathering a circle was drawn by torchlight on the hard earthen floor of the patio, and the two would-be bridegrooms with muttered prayers to the Holy Virgin each placed a favorite jumping bean in the centre of the enclosure.

"JUMPING BEANS" NOW HELD TO BE CRUELTY
California Humane Society Asked to Ban Hopping Mexican Variety

Curious Agitation About the Suffering of the Gymnastic Beans.

law suit at Santa Barbara, has come interesting scientific information as to just what the jumping bean is and why it jumps.

It is not really a "bean" at all, but a seed capsule or pod of a species of weed called the spurge, of the Sebastiania family. A certain kind of moth called the Carposcopa Salitans, lays its eggs on this plant. The tiny larva or caterpillar, soon after it is hatched from the eggs, bores its way into the soft, undeveloped pod. As the pod grows larger and harder, something like an irregularly shaped bean, the caterpillar inside also grows, and hollows out the inside of the pod as a home for itself. If left in its natural state, it eventually bores its way out and becomes a moth, just as the butterfly caterpillar bursts from its cocoon and becomes a butterfly.

It is the movement of this caterpillar inside the bean that causes it to jump. It moves partially just by upsetting the center of gravity, as the bean is irregular in shape, but partially by a more complicated method. The caterpillar attaches itself by the head, with elastic strands which it weaves as a spider does, to one side of the interior of the bean, and with these strands catapults itself head-first against the side of its house, causing it sometimes actually to "jump" an inch or even higher from the ground. With other threads it is partially able to guide the direction of the movement. Instinct teaches it that it develops best in a moderate temperature, and the result is that as soon as it feels excessive warmth it begins jumping to move into a different temperature.

Whether it is cruelty to stimulate the jumping of the beans by putting them in the sun will be decided later by the California courts. If they base their decision on scientific authority, it will probably be in the negative for two reasons. Science says, in the first place, that the caterpillars, when the bean is put in the sunshine, do not jump because they are in pain, but because a deep instinct teaches them that their life cycle develops better in a cooler temperature. In the second place, according to science, lower forms of life, like caterpillars and worms, have an extremely simple nervous system as compared with the higher animals and man, and it is doubtful, even when they are being totally destroyed, whether they feel intense pain, if known to human beings. It is believed more likely that they suffer only a certain amount of discomfort. Whether it is cruelty to gamble for a woman with these name beans—a totally different question—will be settled when the case of Benotita Gonzales de Sanchez comes up for a hearing in the courts of Mexico City.
